

COVID-19 Vaccine Additional Primary Dose

FloridaHealthCOVID19.gov

An additional primary dose is administered to improve moderately to severely immunocompromised people's immune response to their initial two-dose series of the Pfizer or Moderna COVID-19 vaccine.

Who can get an additional primary dose of the Pfizer and Moderna COVID-19 vaccine?

You should use the same COVID-19 vaccine (Pfizer or Moderna) that you received initially for your additional primary dose. Unlike a COVID-19 booster shot, the Pfizer and Moderna vaccines are not interchangeable for an additional primary dose.

People should talk to their health care provider about whether an additional primary dose is appropriate for them.

At this time, an additional primary dose is not recommended for people who received the J&J COVID-19 vaccine.

*Scan the code for more on immunocompromised conditions, from the CDC.

Find a vaccine near you at FloridaHealthCOVID19.gov or scan the QR code.

